AN ISSUE OF VAST SCOPE

Pennsylvania's Senator Edward Martin has done both the State and the Nation a service in clearly defining the issues raised by President Truman's Executive Order of August 10, calling for the "dispersal" of American industries.

This is an issue of unparalleled importance to Pennsylvania where the Commonwealth's industries, her "crown jewels," have been coveted by other areas of the country for generations.

But it is an issue of almost equal impact throughout the nation, since it is one more clear example of President Truman seeking to seize, wilfully and defiantly, by force and under the pretext of public need, powers which Congress, representing the will of the American people, has voted not to assign to him.

The "dispersal" scheme is the same old socialistic and dictatorial "decentralization" plot cooked up by a radical element in Congress back in 1944, and since then repudiated over and again by both Congress and the American people.

The essence of the scheme is the belief that the bureaucrats at Washington are wiser than the laws of economics and wiser than the evolution of commerce, and that they ought to be permitted to take command of all industry in this nation, and redistribute it through the country according to their own ideas of where it ought to be located. Unfailingly, politics rather than common sense would dictate their choice of sites, and unfailingly also no nation which ever embarked upon such a totalitarian project could ever get back to liberty and free enterprise.

The McCarran plan in 1944 was much franker than the plot which President Truman has been seeking to advance. Senator McCarran boldly urged that war production in eleven highly industrialized states, of which Pennsylvania was one, be "temporarily frozen," and the cream of the industries be moved to the South and West, with the enforced migration of millions of workers to the new locations as an essential part of the scheme.

War or no war, the country refused to go along with that tear-it-down-and-built-it-up-again dream, and when peace returned, "decentralization" was laughed off the map—until a new war emergency arose.

But bureaucratic and socialistic scheming never really dies—it just bides its time. Some months ago a joker amendment appeared in the Defense Production Bill

TAX SITUATION IN FALLS TOWNSHIP IS AGAIN 'AIRED'

Alvan C. Thompson, School Board President, Issues Statement

A "CLARIFICATION"

State Aid Based on Enrollments From Previous Year

FALLSINGTON, Sept. 1 — The tax situation in Falls Township as it affects schools was again aired today when Alvan C. Thompson, president of the Falls Township School Board, issued a public statement dated August 30th.

Mr. Thompson's statement follows:

"There has been considerable talk in the newspapers and in our community concerning the effect of the Fairless community and the $400,000,000 Fairless Steel Plant upon the schools of Falls Township. We have not previously entered into any public discussion of this matter. Because there have been many misstatements concerning the facts, it seems necessary for us at this time to present to the public some of the information which is available to the Falls Township School Board.

"Last year the Falls Township School Board, in its annual report to the State, indicated a total expenditure of $192,093.70. Falls Township had in the Pennsbury Schools an average daily membership of 625 pupils. Dividing this indicated a per pupil cost of $307.34.

"The annual budget for next year was made up by the Falls Township District before any information was available concerning the development of the Fairless community. It, however, was based upon a 35 mill tax rate which is the limit authorized by law for fourth class school districts. Its total budget was $210,010.00. The Falls Township school district estimated that it would have 640 pupils in school this year.

"The above data clearly indicates that the average pupil cost for next year will be $328.13. Estimating that 25% of these funds will be received in State aid, the net cost to Falls Township School District will be $246.10. For every pupil added to the Falls Township School District enrollment it will be necessary to raise between $246.10 and $328.13. Since State aid is based upon enrollments from the previous year no State aid will be received during the current school year for these pupils. Therefore, the actual cost this year will ap-

"Mask of the Avenger" To Be Shown at Grand

Monte Cristo lives again, fights again and loves again in "Mask of the Avenger," Columbia Pictures' new adventure drama starring John Derek in color by Technicolor at the Grand Theatre, Sunday and Monday. Anthony Quinn is featured in the principal supporting role, with Jody Lawrance, Arnold Moss and Eugene Iglesias also importantly cast.

Derek portrays a young captain during the Italo-Austrian War of 1848 who returns home to find his father dead and branded a traitor to Italy. Assuming the guise and sword of the Count of Monte Cristo, Derek wages a one-man war to avenge his father's name and save his country from its enemies. Quinn plays Derek's arch-enemy; Miss Lawrance is cast as his spirited sweetheart; Moss enacts the part of Quinn's chief lieutenant, and Iglesias is a fiery young Italian patriot.

Set in an age of splendor, "Mask of the Avenger" is said to be a colorful, glowing drama. Once more the blade of Monte Cristo thrusts again, the lips of Monte Cristo kiss again and the vengeance of Monte Cristo strikes again.

"Mask of the Avenger" was written for the screen by Jesse L. Lasky, Jr. Phil Karlson directed and Hunt Stromberg produced the new Columbia drama.

THE SEARCH FOR OIL

Recurrent predictions of the near exhaustion of domestic resources are made. Yet additional pools are constantly uncovered. An intensified drilling program recently in North Dakota and Wyoming has opened up substantial new sources. But the latest "discovery" according to Texas Railroad Commission evidence, is that oil deposits in the western section of that state may prove to be the greatest find in the United States in the last 20 years.

This possibility is predicted upon the extent of the area involved, embracing from 700,000 to 1,000,000 acres as compared with that fabulous East Texas field of 133,000 acres. But how near the yield per acre of the new field will come to that of the old field is still to be established, though witnesses are reported to have agreed that there was no other known reserve where as much oil could be made available as quickly and cheaply.

With the Petroleum Administration for Defense still far from its goal of a daily surplus of a million barrels a day during the emergency, the Texas news looms large, even after some discounting of the rosy representations. Since the capital risks will run into many millions, the Congress may have acted more wisely than it was credited with in turning a deaf ear to President Truman's proposal to reduce the favored income tax treatment, accorded producers as an encouragement to new drilling.

As for other sources of oil there is potentially an almost inexhaustible supply in the vast deposits of shale in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, estimated in 1949 at 250,000,000,000 barrels as against the then known domestic underground reserves of 25,000,000,000 barrels. But the problem is one of extraction and refining with the methods of its solution still in the experimental stage.

SHOULD WAKE UP

For many years now the American people have been nagged and threatened by inflation for one reason and one reason alone. That is because government policy has been and still is to multiply the supply of money.

A steady increase in money supply is necessary in a country of increasing population and demand for goods such as America. But the increase in money has been so vast that it outpaces even America's great capacity to produce, particularly when normal production of civilian goods is curtained by the government so that more arms can be procured.

These are basic facts about which the American people seem all too unaware. They should wake up. If they do not, they will certainly reach awareness when it is too late. That will be when the inflationary bubble breaks and America's social, political and economic order is in chaos—to be succeeded by no one knows what.

use, especially in the evenings, as mothers and dads took the tiny tots to the playground, and pushed them in the swings, each adult patiently waiting in line for a turn—the tots not so patiently. In fact the parents have suggested that three more baby swings be added next season.

The three spots where softball was enjoyed, were particularly busy, states the supervisor, Paul D. Brown; and he and his assistants, Miss M. Olive Whyatt and Charles F. Boyd, received many compliments on the manner in which the playground was conducted.

"Attendance has been good, especially in the evenings," commented Mr. Brown. "Day-time attendance, however, fell slightly below last season. Many parents came in the evenings, bringing the smaller children with them, and they made many complimentary remarks on the equipment and facilities."

During the hot, humid days the girls and boys enjoyed the out-door showers. They would arrive in bathing suits, play for a time, then cool off under the showers, located just outside the rest-rooms.

During the latter part of the summer the two tennis courts were more in demand that at the start of the season.

The quoits and horse-shoes interested young and old, although the horse-shoes were the more popular. Quite frequently a man of middle age or more advanced years could be seen playing with the young boys, down to 10 or 11.

Other pieces of equipment enjoyed were the swings, for larger children, see-saws, monkey bars, slides, and the volley balls.

The park was open each day from nine a. m. until dark. With darkness descending earlier the past few weeks, the park day was of necessity shortened.

Quite often adults would arrive to sit on benches outside the playground fence, and from there watch the young folks at their play.

A Special Archery License is required during bow and arrow season, issued only by Dept. of Revenue, Harrisburg, at a fee of $2.00. Antlerless Deer Licenses are issued by County Treasurers and the Dept. of Revenue, Harrisburg, at a fee of $1.10, and valid only in the County for which issued. The County Treasurer is authorized by law to issue 60% of the quota of Antlerless Deer Licenses for his county and the remaining 40% of the licenses for each county can only be issued by the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, Pa.

The quota available for Bucks County is 410 licenses.

Newlyweds to Leave For Florida by Car

Mr. Pirri escorted his daughter to the altar. The bride was costumed in a gown, entrain, of white Chantilly lace, the long sleeves tapering over her hands. Rhinestones trimmed the neckline, also the tiara which held a four-tier veil of net. Her slippers were of kid-skin, and the bride, in approaching the altar bore a white prayer book with white orchid atop. For the recession she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis. She placed at the statue of Our Lady of Loretto a bouquet of mixed white flowers.

The trio attending the bride wore gowns patterned alike, the bodices being of brocaded satin, and the skirts of nylon tulle. Their half-hats, which were plumed, also were of nylon, these matching the individual gowns. Mrs. Carlo Pirri, Spring street, a sister-in-law of the bride, was attired in yellow; Mrs. Louis Galzerano, Jefferson avenue, in baby blue; and Miss Lois Capella, Logan street, in pink. They wore silver slippers and carried colonial bouquets of mixed flowers.

Mr. Albin Pirri and Mr. Louis Pirri, both of Adams street, were best man and usher, respectively. They are brothers of the bride.

Miss Helen Ciotti, organist, provided accompaniment for the vocalist, Miss Theresa Loma.

The breakfast at the Pirri home was arranged for the bridal party; and a dinner at the Robert Morris Hotel, Morrisville, for the same group. This evening in Mutual Aid hall there will be a reception for 300 guests.

Travelling costume of the bride will consist of a black suit, white blouse, black accessories, and Kolinsky neckpiece. She will wear a white orchid. The two will make their home at 338 Dorrance street.

Gifts of the bride to her attendants were triple strand necklaces of pearls, and pearl earrings. Mr. Ciotti gave the best man rhinestone-set tie pin and cuff links; and to the usher a marcasite tie pin.

The bridegroom is a veteran of U. S. Army service.

OCEANSIDE, Cal.—(INS)—It'll probably never happen again because chances are a million to one that it never happened before. Marine Pfc. William E. Nelson of Belton, Tex., was issued Browning Automatic Rifle No. 596,464, his own serial number.

More than 300 motorcyclist will converge on the world famous Langhorne Speedway at noon today for a two-day card of championship motorcycle racing that will be climaxed tomorrow afternoon with the running of the 100-mile National Championship.

This afternoon champions will be crowned in the five, ten and fifteen mile events for novice riders. Beginning at two p. m. the experts will begin qualifying for the championship grind which is listed for three p. m. tomorrow.

Tax Situation in Falls Twp. Is Again "Aired"

"An analysis of the revenue of the school district indicates that the largest proportion of its income will be received through the property tax of 35 mills, the real estate transfer tax of 1%, the per capita tax of five dollars, and an estimated state appropriation of $62,000.00 No new sources of revenue are available. It would seem, therefore, that the Board would have to plan to borrow funds. However, Dr. Charles H. Boehm indicated in a bulletin to the Boards of the County that it is illegal to use temporary loans to balance budgets. It would, therefore, seem that funds must be secured from other sources than those now available. The only possible sources where new revenues may be secured are from our State or Federal governments. The State Legislature is in recess at the moment and no legislation has passed which may give any relief to Falls Township School District. Mr. Medill Bair, Regional Superintendent, has been in contact with Senator James H. Duff and officials of the Federal Security Agency for the purpose of securing relief at the Federal level. However, no funds are in sight at this moment.

"With these facts in mind and with the rapid development of Fairless, approximately 500 homes under roof as of this date, and a schedule which indicates a probable load of 2500 homes by June, 1952, a crisis has been reached in the Falls Township School District. Funds are needed as of this date. Presuming that the $7,000,000 reported (assessment figure reported in some newspapers as of Aug. 30th for the U. S. Steel plant) was correct it can be seen that this will raise a total of $235,000 at a 35 mill tax rate. In addition, the assessment figure for the community of Fairless is set at slightly less than $900,000 for an approximate tax revenue of $31,500.00. If the new community of Fairless has only 1,000 pupils it will require approximately $328,000.00 to operate the present program of education for them. In addition, capital expenditures for 1,000 pupils will be approximately $1,500,000, or about $97,000.00 per year on an amortized basis (3% for 20 years). This means a minimum addition of $425,000.00 must be secured."

ANOTHER GAME IN TRI-COUNTY PLAYOFF SERIES

Another Tri-County League playoff game is scheduled for Memorial Park baseball field tomorrow afternoon as the Voltz-Texaco and Newtown A. C. teams continue their series. A game is also scheduled for this afternoon at Newtown. Both games will get started at two o'clock.

The series is deadlocked at one game each, it being a five-game affair. A double victory for either team over the week-end will end the playoffs.

Manager Barney Ludwig will select Bil McGerr and Paul Cervellero as his hurlers for the two games. McGerr lost to the Newtown team last Saturday while Cervellero won his game.

Cervellero has won thirteen games and lost one during the Tri-County League campaign and has turned in some fine performances. Either Ludwig or Frank Barbetta will do the receiving.

song early this morning it was "an aircraft other than a UN command aircraft."

The Communists had claimed in an official protest that an Allied plane dropped two bombs in the truce zone near the residence of General Nam Il, chief Red delegate to the broken-off cease-fire talks.

When Colonel Kinney and the other Allied personnel arrived to investigate, the Communists showed them two twelve foot by two foot craters four road miles from the conference site. The Reds said Nam Il's residence was "just over the bridge"—about a hundred yards away.

In a final statement to two Communist liaison officers, Kinney said that a UN radar team had observed an aircraft on the exact spot at the exact time contained in the Communist complaint.

Colonel Chang Chun San, North Korean liaison officer, accused Kinney of "ulterior motives" and of "lying."

Chang said:

"For the grave breaching of the neutrality zone I have been instructed to strongly protest."

Kinney ended the talk by saying: "I can see no point in continuing to discuss the matter further."

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1951
King Features Snydicate, Inc.)

ROME, Aug. 31 — Here in Italy, as everywhere in Europe, the government's worst recovery problem is housing, and conditions in Rome are worse than elsewhere.

In actual bomb damage, Rome suffered lightly, as compared with most Italian cities. The Allied air forces were loathe to risk damaging the Vatican, and were under strict orders to stay as far away from it as possible.

They did wreck the Rome railroad terminals, and in the course thereof, wrought considerable damage to surrounding residential areas. But that's not the reason for the present housing crisis.

Rather, it is the result of bombed out populations of other Italian industrial centers, flocking to this capitol city in the hope of jobs and roofs, alike. Rome's population has doubled in the past ten years. Hundreds, probably thousands of families are living in such makeshift shelters as hillside caves, long abandoned guard rooms in the city's ancient great wall, and in rooms and niches in old Roman ruins, such as the baths of Caracalea. The baths date back to the year 217 A. D. and the main portion of them now serves as an awe-inspiring open air opera house.

ECA is contributing major assistance, in attacking the housing problem, one of the most extensive and comprehensive program in all of Europe. Expenditure of some 135 million dollars in ECA counterpart funds has been approved, and housing projects—mostly apartments—are mushrooming all over Rome.

To Americans, calloused by astronomical financial figures, the amount may sound unimportant. To Europeans, it represents a staggering project. They're impatient, however, because the Italian Government, in characteristic form, can hardly be described as "aggressive" in its construction time schedule. The Communists, meanwhile, are making important political capital out of the continuing discomfiture of the public and are fanning dissatisfaction at every opportunity.

The mass immigration, in addition to precipitating a housing crisis, also has created a serious unemployment problem. Authorities estimate that Rome now has about 500 thousand more residents than the city's labor market could normally absorb. Many of these, however, are employed for short time jobs on various reconstruction and other government projects.

The housing shortage is not confined to Rome, or even to metropolitan areas generally. Along country roads, wash is hanging out to dry in front of simple little cutbacks in the hills, and family shelters are nestled under the protective arches of the ancient Roman aqueducts; families live in abandoned quarries and in all kinds of ruins.

The government is seeking to alleviate this, too. As part of its agricultural improvement program, it has, with ECA approval, set up a counterpart money fund of some $8,000,000 for repair of war-damaged farm homes. Again, that sum to Americans sounds like peanuts; but here, it is substantial and is doing much good. Furthermore, in some cases repayment is being made by the farmers involved and the money is being used as a revolving fund.

There also have been substantial investments of private capital in apartment construction since the war, but this has been almost entirely in the cities. Furthermore, it has been almost entirely in what is regarded here as the luxury class of modernistic apartments.

Even in this field demand exceeds supply, although it should be noted that the bulk of the demand for these luxury apartments comes largely from Americans and other foreigners living here.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

More Smells

Washington, Sept. 1.

It is quite obvious that the opponents of Mr. Truman are not going to let him get away with the large and small events that have made his Administration oderiferous, either by vague denunciations or by ignoring the facts.

—o—

Not long ago when the odor became very bad indeed, Democrats as well as Republicans openly began to wonder how the President could hope to ignore personal, documented charges such as were contained in various national magazines, millions of copies of which went all over the country. After this attitude of indifference had caused wide comment, the President issued a statement in which, in broad, general terms, he denounced "liars" and "scandal mongers." In reply to this outburst Senator Taft, pointing out that many of these charges had been brought out and substantiated by Democratic commmittees, challenged the President to be specific. "I suggest," he said, "that he point out the lies instead of just shouting liar."

—o—

Since then there have been several other things besides the deep freezes, the mink coats, the RFC exposure, the allegations against Chairman Boyle, etc., well calculated to make the Administration's smell more pronounced. One of these is the charge by Senator Neely, Democrat, of West Virginia, that New York Democratic Chairman Paul Fitzpatrick, close friend of the President, had visited the White House in behalf of a national corporation seeking a big defense contract. Denials and counter-charges followed, but plainly there is a controversy going on among Democratic politicians over defense contracts. Previous disclosures of "influence" used to get Government loans and contracts made this new revelation seem significant. Certainly it adds to the smell.

In normal times, perhaps, such things would not attract national attention. But in an emergency with citizens everywhere being taxed to the limit and called upon to sacrifice in the national interest they are deeply disturbing. Also, there is the charge that the United Corporation, which constantly has dealings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, is now officered, from president down, almost entirely by ex-employes and members of the SEC. The impropriety of this sort of thing is clear. A third thing is the character of the Truman judicial appointments. Beginning with the naming of ex-Senator Sherman Minton, a violent and bitter Indiana New Deal politician, the charge is that the judges named since 1945, with few exceptions, have been named solely for political reasons. Questions of merit have been constantly disregarded. Recommendations of city, state and national bar associations have been treated with contempt. Particularly is this true of recent appointments in New York, Illinois and the District of Columbia.

A fourth smelly thing now discussed is the diplomatic appointments. The most flagrant of these is that of ex-Mayor O'Dwyer to Mexico. That selection, primarily backed by the same Chairman Fitzpatrick, now interested in defense contracts, was so political and improper that there was a strong protest when it was announced. Months ago the Kefauver committee revealed a connection between O'Dwyer and the notorious Frank Costello. A few weeks ago another notorious gambler testified to even closer personal and political relations with O'Dwyer and to large contributions from gambling sources to his campaign. Yet Mr. O'Dwyer remains Ambassador to Mexico. No White House or State Department defense of his record is made. The whole O'Dwyer scandal is just ignored.

Without putting Mr. Chester Bowles, recently named Ambassador to India, in a class with Mr. O'Dwyer, it is true that the Bowles appointment is thoroughly political. With no experience or training as a diplomat and with no known qualifications for the job, Mr. Bowles is sent to one of the most explosive and important posts in the world. A rich and ambitious advertising man, he early jumped on the Roosevelt New Deal bandwagon and later went Truman and "Fair Deal" in a big way. He was elected governor of Connecticut but, despite a campaign of unprecedented ballyhoo, was badly beaten in the last election. Now Mr. Bowles is Ambassador to India.

Add these recent developments to those that developed previously and it will be conceded the odor of the Administration, admittedly high before, has not been lessened—quite the reverse. Some here are convinced there will be more—and worse—developments before long. At any rate, there are enough now to make the effort to sweep them aside with general press conference denunciations of "liars," "character assassins" and "scandal mongers," etc., seem inadequate and ineffectual. Soon or late, the denials have got to be specific and concrete. Some time or other the "lies" have got to be pointed out and the "liars" named. Unless and until that is done the inevitable disposition is to accept them as truth.

being considered by the House of Representatives, which would have permitted the Truman Administration to tell industry where to locate or where to expand.

The scheme was snowed under in Congress. Not a Pennsylvania voice was raised in its favor—Republicans and Democrats alike joined hands to save Pennsylvania industry and Pennsylvania jobs from the plot to kidnap them and move them to distant parts of the country.

Nevertheless, despite the clear expression of Congressional intent, and despite the fact that the American public has never given the slightest encouragement to the Socialistic project of resettling the nation, President Truman now is attempting to do by executive order what Congress refused to let him do by law.

A vigorous bill has been introduced in Congress by Senator Martin to prohibit the enforcement of the Executive Order thus issued in defiance of the constitutional intention that laws were to be controlled by the American people through their special branch of the government—Congress.

Meanwhile the defenders of free enterprise in the national capitol have been consolidating their forces, and there is strongest unity visible for months in the determination not to tolerate this newest invasion by the President into Congress's power.

The broad issue—that of whether Congress or the President shall write the laws—is as profoundly important as any national issue can be in this country, since it goes deep into the question of the survival of our Constitution.

If Congress is to continue being the law making agency, subject only to the veto power and the other proper "checks and balances" upon this authority, then we are still a Republic and show promise of so remaining.

But if Congress is to be denied the right to spell out the laws, and has to sit helpless while the President puts a law into operation in defiance of Congress's will, writes by executive order a law which Congress has specifically and overwhelmingly turned down—then we are not a Republic, not a "demorcracy," not governed by our Constitution, not a self-governing popular sovereignty,—not anything at all other than a half-baked socialistic dictatorship.

As Joe Martin, former Speaker and now Minority Leader of the House, put the matter—the Truman order represented "the first step toward one-man government in this country." If the order stands, he added, "Congress might as well shut up shop and go home!"
